Sweet Timber Frame Homes are...

- warm, spacious and beautiful
- strong and built to last for generations
- designed to minimize waste – even before we start building
- crafted with exceptional attention to detail from the ground up

Sweet Timber Frames was founded in 1981 by John Sweet and is based in Mount Desert, Maine. Our company encompasses a core group of highly skilled craftsmen dedicated to constructing beautiful, environmentally sustainable timber frames using traditional timber frame building techniques.

Choosing to work with Sweet Timber Frames means choosing to work with a timber frame builder that builds in the traditional, hand-joined timber frame techniques. Whether we are building a stand-alone timber frame or a “foundation to finish” complete timber frame home, we handcraft every timber that goes into your structure. This high-quality craftsmanship costs more than a timber frame kit, but results in a much finer, quality end result.

Sweet Timber Frames can build your timber frame from our existing in-house plans, or we can design a completely customized home. We’ve built more than 60 timber frame homes, most of which we designed “in-house,” but we also can collaborate with a client’s architect when building a larger, more complex home.

Once a final design is agreed upon, it usually takes six months to a full year to complete the construction of your home, depending on the complexities of the design and the intricacies of the finish work. This timeframe can be shortened by adding additional craftsmen to our core group of six.
